CIFRA REGULAR, 6 PT

In the consideration of the faculties and impulses of the prima mobilia of the human soul, the phrenologists have failed to make room for a propensity which, although obviously existing as a radical, primitive, irreducible sentiment, has been equally overlooked by all the moralists who have preceded them. In the pure arrogance of the reason, we have all overlooked it. We have suffered its existence to escape our senses, solely through want of belief of faith; whether it be faith in Revelation, or faith in the Kabbala.

CIFRA THIN, 9 PT

The idea of it has never occurred to us, simply because of its supererogation. We saw no need of the impulse for the the propensity. We could not perceive its necessity. We could not understand, that is to say, we could not have understood, had the notion of this primum mobile ever obtruded itself.

CIFRA THIN, 12 PT

We could not have understood in what manner it might be made to further the objects of humanity, either temporal or eternal.

CIFRA THIN, 14 PT

It can't be denied that phrenology and, in great measure, all metaphysicianism have been concocted a priori.

CIFRA THIN, 18 PT

The intellectual or logical man, rather than the understanding or observant man, set himself to imagine designs and dictate purposes to God.
