

Font Services

CastleType offers several custom type design services, including logo digitization, modification of existing fonts, and custom font creation. For information about your specific needs, or for an estimate, please contact CastleType by e-mail at info@castletype.com.

Logo Digitization

If you would like to be able to type your logo* in your favorite word processor or page layout program, CastleType can create a digital version of your logo, and even add it to your favorite font. Below are examples of logos that were created for Chevron Corporation, House & Garden magazine, and Alliance, respectively.

C O N D É N A S T

House & Garden

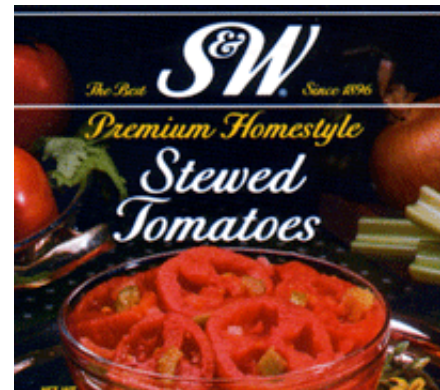

Services:

- Logo digitization
- Dingbats added to font
- Custom type design
- New font weights
- Font makeover
- Format conversion

Click images to enlarge:

Shiseido fonts used on box cover

(*Please note that multi-color logos require a separate character for each color.)

Top of Page

Dingbats

If you need special symbols for designing your catalog or other publications, CastleType can create them and add them to the font(s) of your choice. For example, for creating their catalog Sharper Image needed gift box and telephone dingbats (shown below) which CastleType digitized and added to their corporate typeface.

These and/or other symbols, as well as any dingbat from any CastleType font, can easily be added to whatever font you would like, for a very reasonable fee.

Top of Page

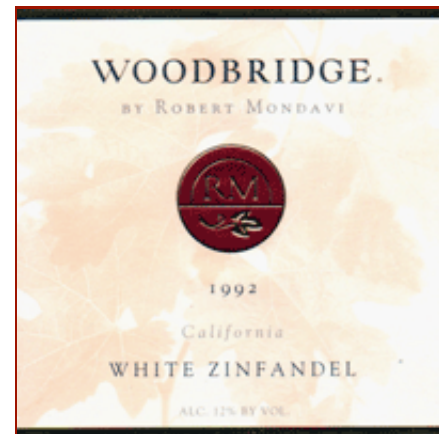

Custom Type Design

Whether you need a digital version of an existing typeface, or want to design a new typeface from scratch, CastleType can help you. Clients from New York to Tokyo have sought out California-based CastleType because of its reputation for friendly, professional, and efficient service.

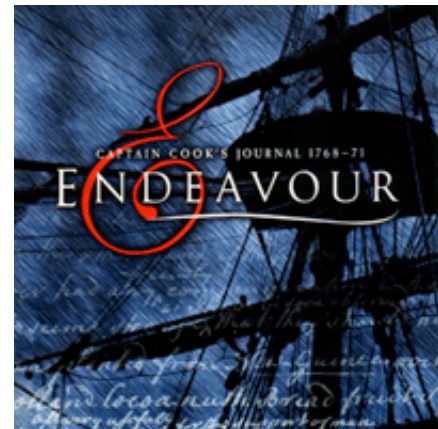

For example, CastleType created several fonts for the corporate identity of multinational giant, Chevron, including a digital version of the logotype. You've seen the Chevron logotype everywhere. But what you may not have

Custom font for S&W Fine Foods

Logo digitization for Mondavi Winery

'Shango' used for book cover

Refinement of logotype for Condé Nast known is that the typeface that is used for it only had about 12 letters when CastleType was commissioned to do a digital version of it in 1996. From those few letters, CastleType created a complete upper and lowercase alphabet with punctuation. Because of the extremely high x-height, certain letters (especially the lowercase 'f') were a special challenge. In fact, some changes had to be made to the original design, but they are subtle enough that (hopefully) no one will ever notice the difference!

Chevron Logotype
ABCDEFGHIJKLM
NOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnop qrstuvwxyz 1234567890

Top of Page

New weights of an existing typeface

A more recent project was for another corporate giant, Shiseido. CastleType was commissioned to create extra light and extra bold weights as well as clean up the digital versions of existing light and bold weights of their proprietary font designed by the world-famous Swiss/French type designer, Adrian Frutiger. As Mr. Frutiger is now retired, he gave his permission for me to create the new weights. Under the exacting supervision of Shiseido's creative director, Kazuo Yasuhara, two new weights were created that complement the Frutiger originals. Examples of the new, extreme weights are shown below. One evening, while shopping at Macys, I was pleased to notice a cosmetics box cover (see above right) elegantly using these fonts in white on shiny red.

Metropolis Bold on magazine cover

Radiant CT Extra Condensed Bold

Standard CT (2 weights) - SF Focus

