Presently she began again. 'I wonder if I shall fall right through the earth. How funny it'll seem to come out among the people that walk with their heads downward. The Antipathies, I think.' she was rather glad there A no one listening, this time, as it didn't sound at all the right word 'but I shall have to ask them what the name of the country is, you know. Please, ma'am, is this New zealand or Australia' and she tried to curtsy as she spoke, fancy curtseying as you're falling through the air. Do you think you could manage it 'And what an ignorant little girl she'll think me for asking. No, it'll never do to ask: perhaps I shall see it written up somewhere.'

Down, down, down. There was nothing else to do, so Alice soon began talking again. 'Dinah'll miss me very much to-night, I should think' Dinah was the cat. 'I hope they'll remember her saucer of milk at tea-time. Dinah my dear, I wish you were down here with me. There are no mice in the air,

I'm afraid, but you might catch a bat, and that's very like a mouse, you know. But do cats eat bats, I wonder.' And here Alice began to get rather sleepy, and went on saying to herself, in a dreamy sort of way, 'Do cats eat bats. Do cats eat bats.' and sometimes, 'Do bats eat cats.' for, you see, as she couldn't answer either question, it didn't much matter which way she put it. Then she felt that she was dozing off.
