

Type-test
28 Mai 2006

Mello Book

Type design is done by specialists called type designers. At least, that's what we may think at first. And it is true that there are many good typefaces made by real' type designers. But there

Optical

(12 pt.)

abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
ABCDEFGHIJKLMOPQRS TU
123456789 ,.:@&!

Type design is done by specialists called type designers. At least, that's what we may think at first. And it is true that there are many good typefaces made by real' type designers. But there are also many good typefaces made by people who mostly did other things, with some type designing on the side. By 'type' I mean indeed the letterforms used within typography, so I refer to the fonts which are used to compose text. This leaves out the area of handwriting, calligraphy, and lettering. Before the invention of graphic design, people who designed type might be engravers, writing masters, printers, or punchcutters. In the twentieth century many types were designed by people who had optical

(10 pt.)

abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
abcijkmopqrstu 123456789 ,.:@&!

type design is done by specialists called type designers. at least, that's what we may think at first. and it is true that there are many good typefaces made by real' type designers. but there are also many good typefaces made by people who mostly did other things, with some type designing on the side. by 'type' i mean indeed the letterforms used within typography, so i refer to the fonts which are used to compose text. this leaves out the area of handwriting, calligraphy, and lettering. before the invention of graphic design, people who designed type might be engravers, writing masters, printers, or punchcutters. in the twentieth century many types were designed by people who had

test@sign

Haugesund

Bier

Haug

Holmenkollen

Agdenes

yvxwzjuas

yngvetrekli

April 14

President Bush strongly defended Defense secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld today, despite calls from retired generals that he step down, and said Mr. Rumsfeld's leadership is vital for the United States.

Earlier today I spoke with Don Rumsfeld about ongoing military operations in the global war on terror, the president said. He reiterated my strong support for his leadership during this historic and challenging time for our nation.

Mr. Bush said the defense secretary had helped to transform the United States military into a force fully prepared to confront the dangerous threats of the 21st century and had, along with the leaders of the services, taken the fight to terrorists on many fronts.

Change provisional results giving the victory to his challenger, Romano Prodi. Still, the famously pugnacious Mr. Berlusconi, in office for the last five years, did not appear ready to concede defeat.

We will go forward, he told a crowd of reporters and supporters, as well as a few who want to see him leave power in Italy, as he left his grand palace in Rome to spend the Easter holiday in his home city of Milan.

Mr. Berlusconi's refusal to concede defeat has infuriated his opponents, and even worried some allies, as a challenge not only to the very close results but as bordering on a challenge to Italian democracy. Following the news of the smaller number of contested ballots, his opponents said they hoped he would soon give up and end the political uncertainty that has hovered since the polls closed on Monday.

As was obvious, the check hasn't brought anything new, said Mr. Prodi, 66, a former prime minister, referring to an ongoing examination of the ballots before the results are certified. Our victory is confirmed, he told reporters near his home in Bologna.

Largest center-left party, the Democrats of the Left, released a statement saying: we were right. Bluff of Berlusconi and Forza Italia is definitively exposed by their own Ministry of the Interior. Forza Italia is Mr. Berlusconi's political party.

April 14

President Bush strongly defended Defense secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld today, despite calls from retired generals that he step down, and said Mr. Rumsfeld's leadership is vital for the United States.

Earlier today I spoke with Don Rumsfeld about ongoing military operations in the global war on terror, the president said. I reiterated my strong support for his leadership during this historic and challenging

April 14

President Bush strongly defended Defense secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld today, despite calls from retired generals that he step down, and said Mr. Rumsfeld's leadership is vital for the United States.

Earlier today I spoke with Don Rumsfeld about ongoing military operations in the global war on terror, the president said. I reiterated my strong support for his leadership during this historic and challenging time for our nation.

Mr. Bush said the defense secretary had helped to transform the United States military into a force fully prepared to confront the dangerous threats of the 21st century and had, along with the leaders of the services, taken the fight to terrorists on many fronts.

Berlusconi's fight to remain prime minister appeared all but over today after the Interior Ministry announced a far smaller number of contested ballots in this week's narrow elections. He reduced number was not nearly enough to change provisional results giving the victory to his challenger, Romano Prodi. Still, the famously pugnacious Mr. Berlusconi, in office for the last five years, did not appear ready to concede defeat. President Bush strongly defended Defense secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld today, despite calls from retired generals that he step down, and said Mr. Rumsfeld's leadership is vital for the United States.

Earlier today I spoke with Don Rumsfeld about ongoing military operations in the global war on terror, the president said. I reiterated my strong support for his leadership during this historic and challenging time for our nation.

Mr. Bush said the defense secretary had helped to transform the United States military into a force fully prepared to confront the dangerous threats of the 21st century and had, along with the leaders of the services, taken the fight to terrorists on many fronts.

Berlusconi's fight to remain prime minister appeared all but over today after the Interior Ministry announced a far smaller number of contested ballots in this week's narrow elections. He reduced number was not nearly enough to change provisional results giving the victory to his challenger, Romano Prodi. Still, the famously pugnacious Mr. Berlusconi, in office for the last five years, did not appear ready to concede defeat.

we will go forward, he told a crowd of reporters and supporters, as well as a few who want to see him leave power in Italy, as he left his grand palace in Rome to spend the Easter holiday in his home city of Milan.

Mr. Berlusconi's refusal to concede defeat has infuriated his opponents, and even worried some allies, as a challenge not only to the very close results but as abcdef-ghijklm-nopqrstu-

vxyz

&@

12345679

nopqrstuvwxyz

-wxyz

123456

7890

@!&,. .

Dag Henning Brandsaeter
De wittenkade 95, Amsterdam 0031628 172 753
dag@exclusiveandlovely.net